

PHY-MUN

Committee: United Nations Atomic Energy Commission (UNAEC)

Agenda: Deliberation on the International Control of Atomic Energy to Avert the Proliferation of Weapons of Mass Destruction

The Year is 1946

The war is over, but peace is fragile. The world has witnessed horrors beyond imagination. In the shadows of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, two cities reduced to ash in an instant, the age of the atom has dawned — and with it, a choice that will shape the destiny of humankind.

The Manhattan Project, once a closely guarded secret, has unveiled a power so great it can end wars... or end civilizations. Nations now stand at a crossroads: will atomic energy be harnessed for progress, or wielded as the deadliest weapon in history?

In this defining moment, the United Nations forms the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission (UNAEC), tasked with preventing the proliferation of atomic weapons and ensuring that nuclear science serves only peaceful purposes. You, as a delegate, are called upon to draft the frameworks, forge the treaties, and determine the fate of the nuclear age.

Every speech you deliver, every clause you negotiate, and every resolution you pass may decide whether the atom becomes a beacon of hope — or a curse that haunts generations to come.

Event Structure

Preliminary Round (Online Submission)

- Submit a 500–800 word policy statement detailing your country's stance on the agenda, rooted in the historical context and national priorities of 1946.
- Format: PDF, Times New Roman, 12 pt, 1.5 spacing.
- "The country with respect to which all delegates will be writing their online submission is CANADA."

Final Round (On-Campus MUN Session)

- Shortlisted participants will represent countries assigned by the organisers (which may differ from their prelim submission country).
 - Proceedings will follow official MUN protocol, including moderated/unmoderated caucuses, working paper and draft resolution creation, and voting.
 - Performance will be judged on historical accuracy, diplomatic strategy, depth of knowledge, and engagement in debate.
-

Awards

- Best Delegate – ₹2500
 - High Commendation – ₹1500
-

No prior MUN experience is required — just curiosity, research skills, and the willingness to step into a defining moment of history.

PRELIMS SUBMISSION - <https://forms.gle/sCMLGWznD83xwRNV6>